

ABSTRACT

A system and method for trading electrical transmission rights are provided. The system and method employ an exchange mechanism based on unequal quantity exchange rates between sets of transmission rights. The exchange encourages efficient trading between market participants. In addition, the system and method permits participants to trade only one or a few transmissions rather than a portfolio of rights.

20/482552.3